Howard Granger was salutatorian and his contribution to the class day program was an essay on electricity.

There is an old Arabian story which tells us of a genie who, when under man's control, was a useful servant but, when uncontrolled, was his worst enemy. To the average person such beings seem beyond the realm of possibility, but there are great forces in nature which are just as wonderful. Such a force is electricity.

Two Things Worry Germany. Two things are causing especial anxiety in Germany. One is the persistent demand of the masses in Austria-Hungary for a peace on the Scheidemann plan of no annexations and no indemnities-a separate pence if Germany remains obdurate, German Socialists are aroused to anger by the prospect of this breaking up of the alliance of the central powers, and lay all the blame on the pan Germans. The other-cause for German worry is the scarcity of food, which admittedly is increasing throughout the empire. Food Controller von Batocki told the seichstag that the potato crop is smaller than was expected, and that the crops in the occupied territories are a great disappointment, as seed will hardly germinate in ruined soil. In Turkey, Bulgaria and Austria, he admitted, the food-situation-was-desperute. The cities and towns over there are suffering far more than the country districts, for the pensants retain much of the meats and other foodstuffs they produce, despite the efforts of the officials to force them to disgorge. STARTLING EXPOSURE OF INNER LIFE OF KAISER AND CROWN PRINCE AS TOLD BY COUNT ERNST VON HELTZENDORFF TO WILLIAM LEQUEUX

THE TRAGEDY OF THE LEUTENBERGS

How the Kaiser and His Heir Conspired for the Undoing of the Beautiful English Wife of a Member of the German Nobility.

A LETTER FROM THE CROWN PRINCE'S PERSONAL ADJUTANT WILLIAM LEQUEUX, POSSESSOR OF THE SECRETS OF EUROPE.

Veneux Nadon, par Moret-sur-Loing, Seine-et-Marne, February 10th, 1917,

My dear LeQueux:

I have just shished reading the proofs of your articles describing—my-life as an official at the imperial court at Potadam, and the two or three small errors you mide I have duly corrected.

The gross scandals and will intrigues which I have related to you were many of them known to yourself, for, as the intimate friend-ofLuisa, the ex-crown princess of Saxony, you were, before the war, closely associated with many of those at court whose ames appear in these articles.

The revelations which I have made, and which you have recorded here, are but a tithe of the disclosures which I could make, and if the world desires more, I shall be pleased to furnish you with other and even more startling details, which you may also put into print.

My service as personal adjustant to the German crown prince is, happily, at an end, and now, with the treachery of Germany against civilisation glaringly revealed, I feel, in my retirement, no computation is exposing all I know concerning the secrets of the kaiser and his son.

With most cordial greetings from
Your sincere friend,

A Strange, inexplicable Affair.
In the early days of 1912 I found myself, as the personal adjutant of his imperial highness the crown prince, in volved in a very strange, even inexplicable affair.

The drama opened in the emperor's palace in Berlin on New Year's night, 1912, when, as usual, a grand court reception was held.

In the famous White salon, with its ceilings gaudily emblazoned with the arms of the Hohenzollerns as burgraves, electors, kings, emperors, and what-not, its walls of colored marble and gilded bronze, and its fine statues of the Prussian rulers, we had all as sembled and were waiting the entrance

And with those words the major was -dismissed.

"A charming man!" remarked the prince, after the door had closed. "Heltzendorff," he exclaimed a few moments later; after he had reflected deeply between the whiffs of his cigarette. "Heltzendorff, I wish you to become acquainted with the Countess von Leutenberg, and you must after-ward introduce me. I have a fixed and distinct reason. I could obtain the assistance of others, but I trust you

"But I do not know the lady," I protested, for I had no desire whatsoever to become implicated in any doubledealing.

His imperial highness, who had, I knew, been lunching with the emperor at the Konigliches Schloss across bridge, seemed unusually serious and thoughtful. Perhaps the emperor had round-faced snow-haired, somewhat again shown his anger at his peccadil

"Perfectly," was my reply.
"I told you that I should require you to introduce me," he said, "Well, want you to do so this evening. She has taken a box at the Konigliche Opera tonight, where they are to play 'Falstaff.' I shall be there, and you will be with me. Then you will introduce me to your pretty friend. Understand?"

A Puzzling Sentence. That night, in accordance with "Will you see Von Glasenapp for instructions, I sat in the emperor's box me, and hand him those orders for with the crown prince, Tresternitz, and two personal adjutants, and, rec-

> What was unfortunate? I was further puzzled by that last sentence, yet I dare not ask any explanation, and we went back to our own box.

After our return to the palace the crown prince, who was standing in one of the corridors talking with the slim, fair-haired Baroness von Wedel, one of his wife's ladies-in-waiting, left her and beckoned me into an adjoining deep, hoarse whisper, a strange, wild look of desperation in her blue eyes. An hour later I reported again at the imperial palace, was granted audience of the emperor, and gave him the verbal reply.

His majesty uttered no word, mere ly nodding his head slowly in approval. Next afternoon a painful sensation was caused throughout Berlin when the "Abendpost" published the news that Count von Leutenberg, the man so recently promoted by the emperor, and his pretty wife had both been found dead in their room. Resume of the Most Important Events in Sweden, Norway and Denmark-Of interest to the Scandinavians in America.

The North sen is infested with Ger man submarines, making it very difficult for both Sweden and Norway to receive enough supplies of food and raw materials from America, in the event of war with Germany. The Scandinavian nations also realize that they would be an easy prey for the Zeppe-lius, because most of the Scandinavian cities have not sufficient protection from the air. But the Scandinavian nations are eager to see German militarism crushed. The United States' en-trance into the war on the side of the allies has been granted by the Scandinavian nations as a ray of hope in all the darkness in which they have been living for months. It is reported that Cant Rould amundsen, the discoverer of the South pole, is going to give the name Bessy the new ship which is being buil for carrying him to the regions of the North pole. The explanation sounds like a fable. Betty is the name of his old nurse-for even the indomitable discoverer of the South pole was really under the sway of a nurse during t certain period of his life. Half a cen tury ago she came on board the stately ten clipper. Constantin, which ves-sel was commanded by Amundsen's father. This event took place in Gothen-burg, Sweden. Amundsen's parents were at that time enjoying their hon-eymoon, and Betty Andersen girdled the globe in company with them, go-ing by way of China and Ceylon. She witnessed a mutiny on board the ship a Chinaman proposed to her, and she was exposed to sundry other dangers during the trip. Finally she was con sidered hardy enough to keep a watch on four boisterous little Amundsens. who made the whole neighborhood unsafe when the snow was more or damp. Roald became Betty's particular favorite. If there is anything that she is proud of telling it is, that she once saved him from drowning. It must be admitted that the water was only one foot deep-he had tumbled into a fountain in the garden. But he was only between one and two years old, so that his life must have been in danger. INSECTICIDES ARE COSTLY

"Kedzie Mixture" May Be Substituted However, for Arsenate of Lead.

East Lansing, Mich.-A method for effecting an economy in the use of insecticides, which have become increas-ingly costly with the continuation of the war, is suggested by Prof. Rufus H. Pettit of M. A. C., who is recommending that where it is possible, "Kedzie mixture" be substituted for arsenate of lead. "Arsenate of lead," according to Professor Pettit, "has become a stand-by for so long that we are apt to for get that there are other stomach polsons which may be used in some cases, with equally good results. The cheapest stomach poison of all is 'Kedzie mixture, a preparation originally proposed by the late Dr. R. C. Kedzie, to take the place of paris green, which was becoming rather expensive even

"Kedzie mixture never became so extensively used as would otherwise have been the case, because it cannot be combined with lime sulphur, and lime sulphur is a favorite summer spray. Lime sulphur, however, is not used on potatoes, and at the presen ly to give a profitable stand, or where time a great saving can be effected by making use of 'Kedzle mixture' lime or with bordeaux, in fighting the ever-present potato beetle.

"Doctor Kedzie gave the following as directions for the preparation of this spray:

"Dissolve the arsenic by boiling with carbonate of soda to insure complete solution, which solution can be kept ready for making a spraying solution whenever needed. To make the mate rial for 800 gallons of spraying mixture, boil two pounds of white arsenic with eight pounds of salsoda (crystals of carbonate of soda-washing soda -found in every drug store) in two gallons of water. Boil these materials in any iron pot not used for any other purpose. Boil for 15 minutes, or until the arsenic dissolves, leaving only a small muddy sediment. Put this solution in a two-gallon jug and label 'Poison, stock material for spraying mixture.

"The spraying mixture can be pre-pared whenever required; and in the quantity needed at the time by slaking two pounds of lime, adding this to 40 gallons of water; pour into this a-pint of the stock arsenic solution. East Lansing, Mich.-White pine blister rust, the parasite which has as-vast-a-scale as-her-guns-have been killing men, has gained a foothold in Michigan, and unless controlled, will tive-work-abroad. The disease-has been established in the East for some ime, and has spread threateningly, but it was believed by Michigan foresters that it had not reached this state. Inspections last season failed to disclose its presence, but more recent examinations have demonstrated that the rust has not only begun its work in Micht gan, but has been here for years. One nursery was found where imported vears old were afflicted with the parasite.

During the coming-summer, accordingly, three foresters will take the field in Michigan to ferret out the affected districts and inaugurate control measures. The latter will require the cooperation not only of citizens generally, but of farmers in particular. The inspectors_will_begin_their_work_at

So far as is known, there is no cure for the disease. It kills all the young trees it infects and spreads rapidly, but while it does its greatest damage to the white pine, it requires cureased pines, and these, alighting on the leaves of current and gooseberry Sudan grass is a promising seed and bushes, grow and produce clusters of forage crop for Michigan. For seed tiny yellow spots. From these spots are later released minute oval spores or "seeds," and these, when blown about by the wind, spread the parasite to other gooseberry and current bushes. Then in August another 'crop" is formed on the bushes, but this time, instead of only the tiny yellow ovals, there are also produced dark, hornlike formations covered with small, round bodies. These, when lodged by the wind on the bark of the pines, germinate on the tree and infect it. The bark is blistered and circulation cut off, finally resulting in the death of the tree.

In awakening the public to the menace of the blister rust, the foresters are recommending that the diseased pines, when found, be destroyed. at once, and any currents or gooseherries in the vicinity uprooted and burned. Where there is doubt, persons discovering symptoms of the disease have been asked to send the suspecte bark of the pine, or leaves of currents for examination.

PARTICULAR CARE FOR MILK

Flavors in Dairy Products May Se Prevented by Keeping Cows From Eating Woods.

Den't let your dairy products taste of weeds or grass, if you can avoid it. Because butterfat absorbs flavors, particular care should be taken in han-dling milk, cream and butter, accordto N. E. Olson, instructor in dairy husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college. "The principal flavors derived from feeds are the weedy flavors," said Mr. Olson. "In the spring creameries have trouble with the wild onion flavor. This is something that the farmer cannot prevent, and is caused by early pastur-

"Another common flavor is the halfgrass flavor, produced from green feed Whereas, The combined strength of in the early spring. It can be tasted the Boy Scouts of America, now in in milk, creum, and also in ice creum, cluding 210,000 boys and 58,000 men. It is found in practically all dairy products in the spring."

The method of preventing these flavors is keeping the cows from enting weeds, pointed out Mr. Olson. Weedy patches in pastures should be off so that the cows cannot get to them. Other flavors are produced through the feeding of alfalfa and silage. If silage is fed, it is advisable to feed it after milking rather than before.

WHY SHORTHORN IS FAVORED

Beef Must Come Along With Milk Is Claim-Dairy Cattle Breeders Have Good Argument,

One reason why the milking Shorthorn is being called to the attention of corn-belt farmers who must come in-evitably to dairying, is that the corn helt is committed to heef and cannot easily give up to dairying exclusively. The farmer who takes a dairy bull lf to market and gets $3 or $4 for it, is likely to feel cheated, bethat grew into a likely steer and brought a good profit.

Or course, the dairy cattle breeders have their arguments—and good ones.

Shorthorns on Kansas Farm

But the fact remains that the farmer, generally speaking, will be hard to wean away from the beef type. The Shorthorn's reputation as a leading peef animal will appeal to the farmer, for he still can have his beef along with his milk.

This argument may apply to other dual purpose cattle, perhaps, but it is especially good with a beef animal that an perform well in the dairy.

FEED COWS BEFORE CALVING Practical Dairymen Agree That Preparation Has Much to Do With the Amount of Milk.

The proper time to begin feeding a dairy cow is six or eight weeks before calving, and practical dairymen agree that this preparation has more to do with the amount of milk and butterfat which a cow produces during the lactation period than does the feeding during any other period.

For cows calving during the summer or early fall most dairymen like to have a small-pasture away from the herd but with an abundance of grass, and, in addition, they like to feed a suitable grain mixture. Corn silage, with clover or alfalfa hay and a limited grain ration of three parts ground oats, two parts of bran and one part of-oilment is especially good for cows calving during winter or early spring. After calving the cows should be brought slowly up to full feed and thereby steadily to a higher produc-

GOOD SLOGAN FOR DAIRYMAN

Corn Silage and Other Roughage Have Value That Cannot Be Overestimated-Have Purebreds.

High-priced dairy feeds of last winter should teach the dairy farmers two-things, according to the animal hus-bandmen at Cornell. The first is that good corn slinge and other roughage have a value that cannot be overestimated; the second-is-that there is-agreater need for good cows than ever before. This is no time to be feeding poor producers, and the man who has purebreds is getting double value for his feed. The dairyman's slogan for next year should be purebreds, a silo. and clover or alfalfa hay.

The Effects of Opiates.

The Effects of Oplates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these epistes cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbedility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspensia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unaveidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups, and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot, be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Latin?" She said in part as follows: WHY STUDY LATIN.

carning down to the last fifteen or raising these and other questions, the twenty years Latin has been considies in the school curriculum. Recent- and humanity, a full-grown manhood ly the attitude has changed and many people are asking if it is really worth

The argument most often advanced for the study of Latin is that it is of mportance as a means of disciplinein other words it trains the mind. It does away with carelessness, shallow ness and vagueness, develops concencises the judgment. The second reason for the study of atin is that it is a great source of culture. To be really cultured one needs to have a knowledge of, and appreciation for, the beauty in art and literature. One of the best ources for this knowledge and appreciation is in the study of Virgil and Ovid; for many of our first pieces of art including both statues and paintings are of subjects taken from the assic myths. A knowledge of their authors also assists in the interpreta tion of literature. Many poets have written whole poems based on Greek and Roman stories. The majority of inglish and American writers also ise many allusions to mythological stories and characters. The student of Latin would recognize these and thus would derive more appreciation for the poems than the person who had to work them up. These stories also add interest and beauty to life; them sees more in nature than the average person. These stories should be read in the original rather than in translations, because it makes them be emembered more easily and because therwise there real spirit is lost.

But the most important reason for ne study of Latin is that it is of great practical value. This is especially rue in the various professions. It is simply indispensable to the lawyer: for he finds Latin words and phrases upon almost every page of his legal ooks. It has a special value for the physician, because it gives him the habit of close observation and alertness of mind. Latin names are also and in medicine, especially in the writing of prescriptions. The business man finds it of value because it aids him in acquiring French, Italian and Spanish which he finds of importine wealth or night minds and spanish which he finds of importine wand some revised. ince in his commercial enterprises.

alue n But it is of great of only to the professional and business man but also to anyone who reads, vrites or speaks English. A good Latin grammarian is a good English grammarian without further study. Half of the words in our dictionary re derived from the Latin. A student of Latin also has a knowledge of prefixes which aids him much in getting the meaning of common English words. And therefore, since it is nicans of discipline, a source of cul-ture, and of great practical value, pupils should take two and, whenever Crawford. In Chancery. pupils should take two and, whenever ossible, four years of Latin during neir high school course.
